WINGSPAN ARTS KIDS FILM FESTIVAL (Saturday) This festival unfolds in a setting any director might envy: Lincoln Center. Complete with "red carpet" interviews and multiple awards, the program has much in common with events for more experienced moviemakers, except for the age of the participants: about 8 to 18. All have experience with Wingspan Arts, a nonprofit organization offering youth arts programs in the New York area. Doors open at 9:15 a.m., with screenings starting at 10 and a reception at 12:30 p.m., at the Walter Reade Theater, 167 West 65th Street. Reservations by e-mail: RSVP@wingspanarts.org. Free, but a $10 donation is suggested.
